

stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp for Kids

Virtuous wife and devoted mother? Or crack-addicted devil-worshipping prostitute? You decide.

Suffer the Little Children — Mark 10:14

Do you worry that your unruly children will turn away from our merciful Christian God? Do you worry that, no matter how hard you try to give your children a righteous and wholesome environment, socialists and college professors will transform them into Satan-worshipping tweakers feenin for an eightball of devil's dandruff? What your children need is discipline and the fear of almighty God. That's where we can help.

Waterboarding is the Answer!

Waterboarding is the perfect disciplinary tool. It's as though God invented waterboarding as a way to painlessly, harmlessly, and gently make our children think they are drowning, just like all the babies did in Noah's time. Except that all those babies really did drown to death and then went straight to Hell.

Waterboarding is Not Torture.

If you're an American patriot, a true conservative, and a God-fearing Christian, you already know that waterboarding is not torture. When a conservative president of this land says that America does not torture, America does not torture.

What you may not know is that the president had gifted conservative legal scholars give all of his interrogation techniques a good hard once-over and write long memos about those techniques, and they found that not one of them was torture, even if you did all of them at the same time. The genius of George W. Bush and Dick Cheney is that they did not even suggest something that was torture. So, waterboarding is not torture. That's the end of that story.

Waterboarding is Painless.

President George W. Bush's legal scholars also disclosed something wonderful. See, you might think that something like waterboarding would be a rough sort of thing. Why, even the legal scholars' memos say that waterboarding simulates drowning so well that someone being waterboarded experiences the sensation of drowning "even if he is aware that he is not actually drowning." But it turns out that waterboarding is actually the most gentle thing in the world. In fact, the president's lawyers said that it is even better for you and your children than spanking.

According to the president's legal scholars, the legal definition of torture in the United States is either an act that inflicts "severe physical or mental pain or suffering" (18 USCA §§ 2340-2340A) or "severe pain or suffering ... whether physical or mental" (28 USCA § 1350). Well, that's pretty much the same thing: severe physical or mental pain or suffering.

But here's the thing: even though, according to the president's memos, waterboarding "produces the perception of 'suffocation and incipient panic'" and is "based on a deeply rooted physiological response," it also "inflicts no pain or actual harm whatsoever." You read that right. No pain or harm, either physical or mental. The memos go on to say that there is also no physical or mental suffering associated with waterboarding.

Now, think about that: even if you spank your children, you cause them some pain. But if you waterboard them, it is absolutely painless with no lasting effects!

Waterboarding is painless and harmless. It's a caring conservative's way to discipline his children. It's safe and gentle, like baby shampoo for your child's mind.

Children like this need the loving guidance that only waterboarding can provide.

Waterboarding is Not Child Abuse and is Perfectly Legal.

Perhaps you are concerned that waterboarding is child abuse. It isn't. One of the patriotic legal scholars who approved every torture method President George W. Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney requested was the Honorable Jay Bybee. He is the one who wrote that waterboarding causes "no pain or harm whatsoever." When he wrote that, he confirmed that you can waterboard your child as often as you like and it will never become child abuse. You no longer need to spare the rod! Ever!

stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp is located near beautiful Santa Cruz. In California, child abuse occurs when an act causes a child "unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering" according to Penal Code 11165.3. Thanks to the good Jay Bybee, we know that waterboarding causes no physical pain and no mental suffering at all. It will not harm your child in the least! So it cannot be abuse.

To cap it all off, Jay Bybee was made into a federal judge on the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. He is one of a few judges who rule all of California. So you can be sure that the highest court governing California, just below the Supreme Court of the United States, understands that waterboarding causes no physical or emotional pain or suffering whatsoever. God bless Judge Bybee for his love of freedom and for his inspired insight into how it feels to drown.

This is not torture, either.

Christians for Waterboarding.

All good conservatives — and that's the only kind of conservative — know that waterboarding is not torture. Most Christians do too. A recent poll by the Pew Forum on Religion and Public Life found that 62 percent of white evangelical Protestants believe that "the use of torture against suspected terrorists to gain important information" is often or sometimes justified. (You can see those poll results at <http://pewforum.org/docs/?DocID=156>.) Only sixteen percent of that group believed that torture is never justified. There was also just as strong a correlation between regular church attendance and support for torture. And that's torture the polls were asking about, not Enhanced Interrogation Techniques like waterboarding.

So most of you already understand that Jesus says it's okay to torture. If it is okay to torture, it is certainly okay to waterboard your children for their own good. Then someday, your children will think of you when they are waterboarding their own children. That's the eternal Christian cycle of love. Those are the family values we are trying so hard to preserve. Remember: He that spareth his rod hateth his son. — Proverbs 13:24.

Seriously, he's feeling no pain.

About stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp.

stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp is on more than sixty beachfront acres overlooking Monterey Bay on stoogepie Ranch. The staff and visiting parents stay in stoogepie Manor while campers stay in bungalows adorned with canvas. All water for campers is heated only by the sun and comes from rich, natural wells. But the kids don't use much water and will not need to shower much, since they are waterboarded several times each day. They also don't use the toilet much, since waterboarding usually takes care of that, too. And, since we combine waterboarding with sleep deprivation (which, according to the president's memos, causes "some physical discomfort" but no lasting physical or mental pain), campers use the bungalows mainly as a place to store personal belongings during their stay.

There is abundant wildlife at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp — including colorful butterflies, cute chipmunks, enormous sea turtles, wild bats, and sin-inducing snakes — but the campers don't really get to see any of that wildlife or the inviting rock outcroppings and luscious palm trees on the beach.

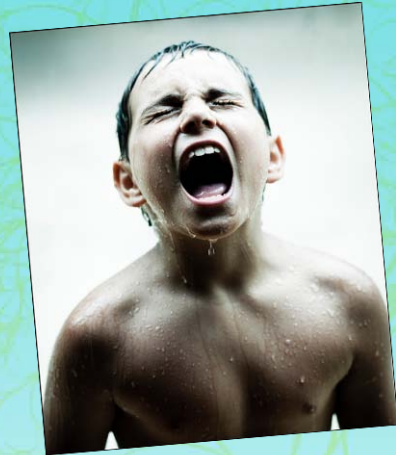

Individual Attention.

Each session at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp is limited to only thirty children aged 6-12 so that we can give each child the individual attention he or she needs. We pick your children up at the airport in our very own schoolbus. The kids begin the fun by being blindfolded for the duration of the trip. The location of stoogepie Ranch is a closely guarded secret, and we need to keep it that way to avoid socialist protestors who might try to free the children.

The stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp Experience: The Campers Arrive.

Once they arrive at the Camp, campers are immediately told what they can expect during their stay: they will be waterboarded a few times daily and, per the guidelines in Judge Jay Bybee's luminous memorandum, will not sleep during their entire eleven-day stay at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp. If they are disobedient, we will have justification for a variety of sanctioned, corporal punishments, including withholding food, face and body slaps, wall standing, stress positions, slamming their little heads into false walls, and cramped confinement with insects of our choosing. Please note that we do not have roaches or other vermin at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp. We use only insects that are clean. Jesus would be fine with squishing our insects without his sandals on his blessed feet.

After waterboarding, children enjoy breathing a whole lot more.

All of these punishments have been sanctioned by President George W. Bush and Vice President Dick Cheney. None of them causes severe physical or mental pain or suffering, even if your unruly children are severely rebellious and unholy.

Your child will be waterboarded shortly after arrival in an open area where campers can watch other children being waterboarded before it is their turn. Children are encouraged to pray while they wait for their daily interrogations.

All waterboarding is conducted per Jay Bybee's guidelines: a maximum of twenty minutes of continuous waterboarding but for three or four breaths allowed every forty seconds. After the twenty minutes and after quickly hosing down the naked camper if he or she has had an unsanitary accident, your children are encouraged to confess their sins before the process starts all over again. This opportunity for confession makes waterboarding a deeply personal experience, and you would be surprised at the things campers confess to!

While we have heard more than our fair share of confessions about impure thoughts, petty thievery, and classroom cheating, we have also had children confess to complicated pyramid schemes, adultery, and fully executed murder-suicides. But don't worry: as long as your child is not an enemy combatant, only the campers and you and us and God will ever know about these confessions.

Meet Our Staff

Bernice

At stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp, we find our strength and purpose in the experience and faith of our dedicated staff. We have a fulltime staff dedicated to serving the needs of your children and, each summer, we also hire temporary camp counselors who assist the fulltime staff with its needs.

Bernice, Head Counselor: Bernice is a California native and former Sunday School teacher who raised her own five children to be strict Christians and devoted Americans. Now, as Head Counselor, she gives the gift of Christian family values to your children just as she did to her own. Bernice does all this while also helping her two daughters, both single parents and one still a teenager, raise their own children.

Ernie, Head Counselor: Ernie is a Texas preacher who began his career at stoogepie's after leaving USP Atwater. Ernie is also an expert outdoorsman, skilled in the use of firearms, and a master of evasion and escape, allowing him to stay one step ahead of the children. Ernie's experience personally coaching individual members of numerous congregations makes him an invaluable asset to the Waterboarding Camp team. Ernie delivers the Sunday sermons at Stoogepious Chapel.

Louise

Louise the Cook: Louise is our expert cook at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp. Since children being waterboarded are not allowed to ingest solid food, she has worked hard to develop a liquid diet rich in essential nutrients but low in pesky calories that could give the kids energy. She is ably assisted by Ernie, Sam, Fred, and Heath.

Sam the Bus Driver: Sam is a retired war veteran who lived in many different places before settling down at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp. The campers find his tales of travel and of all the excess, wickedness, and ungodliness he has seen in the big cities of America riveting. Sam is a skilled survivalist, and regales campers with stories of how, at one time or another, he has had to eat anything that didn't crawl and drink anything flammable he could find. When Sam isn't driving the bus, he is a general handyman around stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp and also helps to keep the children awake at night with his exciting psongs and spirited nighttime stories.

Fred the Plumber: stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp uses an awful lot of water. Keeping that water flowing is Fred's job. Fred is every bit as charismatic and intelligent as Joe the Plumber, and he takes his mission at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp very seriously. He also once saw CPR delivered by an actual nurse, so he heads up the emergency resuscitation team here at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp.

Fred

Heath the Clown: Every now and then, it's good to lift the authoritarian atmosphere at stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp. For comic relief, we have Heath the Clown. Heath inspires the children with rousing stories from the bible and intelligent political generalizations about how all Democrats are socialists, all families should look alike, and who is going to Hell. The children just love Heath. They laugh until they cry and cry.

Heath

Camp Counselors: stoogepie's Waterboarding Camp also employs temporary teenage camp counselors during each session. They live on the grounds and are supervised by stoogepie himself. All of our temporary employees come from solid Christian families but need the spending money a summer job provides. They leave not only knowing that they helped to save numerous children from eternal damnation, but also with a myriad of valuable skills and hard-won experience. The most skilled are offered job placement assistance by stoogepie, and many of those have gone on to find high-paying work as far away as the Northwest San Fernando Valley.

Camp Counselor

2009 Rates and Dates.
